$1 50, $1 90, $2 20, $2 40, $2 90, $3 40.

This Derby differs from the others which we have placed on sale this spring in having a fuller crown, a wider brim and a generally larger appearance. It is a hat specially adapted to stout gentlemen, on whom one of the nobby shapes affected by young gents would look ludicrons. Ruben has any number of fleshy friends, and we make it a point to top them off with a stylish and becoming head covering. By the way, we nake a specialty of extra large sizes. For instance, a gentleman with a Senatorial cranium, measuring 7%, need not go to the trouble or extra expense of having one made to order. Ruben will give you a choice of a dozen of that size to make your selection from. Big men, come and see us by all means.

MEDICAL EDUCATION

And the Code of Ethics, as Treated by Dr. Sutton in an Address

TO M. D. GRADUATES OF NIAGARA.

An Advanced and Admirable Idea of What

Doctors Should Do.

CHARACTER AS ESSENTIAL AS LEARNING

There have been few more interesting or admirable addresses delivered to graduates of any college than the one given by Dr. R. S. Sutton, of Pittsburg, to the graduating class of the medical department of Niagara University at their commencement exercises in Buffalo yesterday. The longer terms of study which he commends, as also the high standard of character which he suggests as essential to the fraternity, are worthy of the advanced school of medicine to which he belongs. THE DISPATCH is favored with the address entire, -Sidney A. Jones, of Mississippi, Confidential Clerk to Assistant Secretary Muldrow, has re-The deadlock in the Rhode Island Legislature over the election of a United States Senawhich is appended: GENTLEMEN—The medical colleges of the United States differ widely in the education they give. Some require wurnily short services of the student, and none require more than three years of professional study in the class room. No Ameri-can medical college has much foreign demand for its output. You have shown your wisdom by se ecting a three-year school for your Alma Mater. The time is near at hand when the public, acting upon their law-makers, will suggest to the two-course medical colleges of this country, that their day of grace has expired.

But, gentlemen, sound preparatory education and the meritorious possession of a medical dipions, are not sufficient qualifications for him who would be successful in the practice of his who would be successful in the practice of his profession. A doctor may be a brilliant scholar, mentally and physically powerful, but if he be devoid of character, he will be a failure. Education without character is dangerous to a doctor, and to the community in which he resides. If there exist a man more dangerous than a drunken doctor, I do not know him.

Picture a man with his pocket case full of pol-sources are the man with miss poster case and pos-sources drugs, his reason dethroned, his con-science blunted and his hand unsteady. There are such men in the profession, and fools to em-ploy and excuse them upon all occasions; and there are those who proclaim these men capable of aurpassing skill if they would but avoid liquor.

A QUIETUS ADVOCATED.

The doctors should be silenced. The strong arm of the law should take away their concealed weapons, more dangerous than knives or revolvers, and they should be deprived of the liberty to en-danger or destroy their patients by mistakes and "devil-may-care" ways. Character is the bull of your ship; keep it safe, and sound; it will prove your ship; keep it safe and sound; it will prove the great supporting power of your lives. Character in its noblest form exempilities human mature in its grandest perfection: through it alone man approaches the likeness of his Creator. Be sober men, industrious, courteous, frank of speech and honest in your dealings with your fedbowman. Frown upon evil and denourage morality; dare to do that which is right and never hesitate-to say "No" when it is the nature required. Let no man or woman bribe you to depart from the path of rectitude or make you a tool upon which to cover their own shame. With honest indignation banks such people from your consulting from:

nation banish such people from your consisting rooms.

Avoid polities: nothing will destroy a good doctor sooner. Avoid the reputation of driving fast horses, and horse training: either will detract from your influence among meral people. He respectful to all your neirbhors, rich and poor alike. Avoid men of low tastes and foul speech, no matter what their position may be; such men are dangerous companions. Be charitable to poor people-fout exact from the rich fair compensation for your services. Improve your spare hours in resuling good books and medical journals. Preserve an pir of neathers and order about your person, and keep your offices, nowever humble, clear of drit and lonfers.

Society demands something of every man, Rural about your peason, and keep your offices, however humble, clear of dirt and lonfers.

Society demands something of every man, flural districts are free from many dangers which beset it in large cities. Everwhere the society of earnest, educated men and cultured women is enmobiling. Society in large cities is kept up at much expense, and is a source of danger to young physicians. It is to be indulged in guardedly. Society doctors are, as a rule, poor students, and trust their society connections rather than their professional quantications to gain them patronage. Society in large cities should be dealt with prudeally and cautiously, enjoy it, and add to its enjoyment honorably, and in strict accordance with your means and time. Never neglect the duties you owe to yourself and your patients.

PRYSICIANS' FINANCES.

Avoid debt. Live honestly in a style in keep ing with your means, remembering that it is no disgrace to be poor in money, but that it it dis contract debts which you canno pay, and that debts bring worry and mental dis-traction. In your intercourse with your profes-sional brethren observe the golden rule of doing ento others as you would be done by. Trust your skill rather than your wits to win patients, and avoid the ways of the politician and the trickster in your endeavor to outstrip your professional neighbor. The code of chies is a pure and righteous document; if all mon followed its precepts and applied them conscientiously to themselves, intercourse among medical men would be Itlopian. It is precisely so with the Bible, the code as pertaining to Christians. You will encounter mon controlling large practices who read, interpret and apply the code of ethics to themselves much as the devil reads, interprets and applies the Hible to himself. They prate about the code, and all young doctors who come into their neighborhood find them ever ready to dispiny it as a menace and as a protection against the invarion of new blood and new ideas. They always x gard the code as first and medical education second. The Hible itself leaches us to beware of men who are too sanctimonious; let me warn you to beware of medical men who are narrow in their education and eternally preaching about the code.

Lest ib misunderstood I repeat that the code is a pure instrument, Study it, apply it sliently and more rigidly to yourselves and to your neighbors, and it will do you good. A word in regard to vanity-often the culcropping of ignorancemay not come amiss. You pride yourselves upon being graduates of a regular medical college. "We belong," you say. "To the profession. Hippocrates was the head of our school. Its teachings are the resulted the wide and free exposition of truths proved over and over again. No dogmatism ever pervaded this glorious old profession to which we have this day plighted our faith. If this were true, then this school of medicine must have sprung full grown from divinity itself, like Minerva from the head of Jove. neighbor. The code of ethics is a pure and right-

BLEEDING EVERYBODY. The reverse is true. From the time of Hippor groping its way through the labyrinths of ignorance, superstition and morbid public senti-ment often displaying the most uncompromising empiricism. It poured into the human stomach the most nauseous and health-destroying com-pounds. It bled everybody, from a babe 3 months old to the oldest man or woman suffering with cer-ebral anamia. It bled for exhausting fevers and acute inflammations indiscriminately. People went in crowds to be bled, and it is recorded that went in crowds to be bled, and it is recorded that one of the Kings of France, for the preservation of His Majesty's strength, was bled 40 times in a single year. The practice of your school was the seourge and devastation of the human family for more than 20 centuries. With its depleting temple than Grant tost before kichmond. That great power, bestowed by the Creator upon manking, constitutes that ever-varying force which we call the siz medicatrix nature, was an unrecognized factor.

What saved this murderous school of medicine, who evolved from its auctent wretchedness the great life-saving profession of to-day? It was because it never adopted an exclusive dogma. It was empirical in the application of severe remedicine but the dogmas, which stand for ultimate truths and which have characterized other sects in medicine, were wanting. Herein lay the secret of its preservation.

Canton read the statistics of the church, as follows: Twelve Apostles, 70 Patriarcha, 3,719 high priests, 11,805 elders, 2,009 priests, 2,222 teachers, 11,610 deacons, 81,899 families, 215,915 officers and members, and 40,392 children under 8 years of age—a total Mormon population of 153,911. The number of marriages for the six months ending April 6, 1889, was 539; births, 3,754; new members, 488; ex-communications, 113. EVER AIMING HIGHER.

The systems inaugorated by Brown, Broussis and Rassori, all truth which they contained, fell a legacy to rational medicine. The system of Hahnemann is rapidly decaying, and his modern disciples are marching toward regular medecine. Aim for a higher standard for the medical profession without regard to individual opinions, which have but little influence on the great inspiration of science itself. The day is coming when the "legal doctor" will be abroad in the land. Then all medical men will be measured by the same standard of education. This is the future hope of medicine and surgery in America. He careful to encourage broad and liberal views. Think for yourselves. There are narrow gauge and broad gauge railroads: people usually take the broad gauge.

Your commencement is to-night; your ending is far beyond the setting of my sun. May you live to see all medical men standing upon the broad platform of selentific medicine; relying entirely upon the scientific investigations of the past, present and future. Thus out of the willingness. EVER AIMING HIGHER.

but I believe they were only experimenting. They kept on experimenting for over ten months, but instead of getting better the child got worse, and I did not know what course to pursue. My wife took her, after we had paid all we could afford for medical treatment, to a medical college where there were some 20 or 30 doctors assembled, but the case baffled them all. My wife had to go every day, and sometimes twice a day. In fact the medicine they gave my child did not have time to act, even if there was any virtue in it, it was chauged so often by orders of the doctors. The latter part of January, after everything had falled, and patience and money were both exhausted, I made up my mind to quit all doctoring and try the Cuticura Remedies. I did so, and now, I can say that my daughter is cured, sound in health, and well, to the surprise of hundreds.

The druggist, Mr. H. M. Krueger, corner Chauteau and Ewing avenues, who sold us the Cuticura Remedies, is as much astonished as any of us. The Cuticura Remedies have worked a complete cure, and we have used but a little more than three-fourths of a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and a proportionate amount of Cuticura and Cuticura Soap. I am ready at any time to make affidavit that my daughter had the worst case of eczema, as the doctors all admit, ever seen in this city, and that she had been cured solely by the Cuticura Remedies, after the best physicians and remedies failed.

I shall be glad to have anyone call upon or write me who has a child similarly afflicted, or any person who is troubled with a skin disease, that he may see for himself what your Cuticura Remedies have done. I do this in gratitude for the cure that has been effected in my child's case.

HOW WILL IT END? The Alarming Increase of a Trouble That is Menacing the People of All Classes-It

Must Be Stopped, but How? The number of prominent men and women who have been dying recently is very large and, strange to say, nearly every one was the victim of one trouble, namely, pneumonia. We hear of these prominent people because they are prominent, but there are thousands who die of this same dreadful disease suddenly and of whom the world never hears. It is safe to say that during the cold season fully haif of all deaths arise from measurous. deaths arise from pheumonia.

This is a most mysterious disease.

This is a most mysterious disease. It comes suddenly and works quickly. It must be taken on the start if at all, and any person who feels a tickling in the throat, a tightness of the chest, a dry cough, difficulty in raising or pain in coughing, should beware! That very moment is the time to act, and by stimulating the body, healthly throw off the germs of the disease before they grow. There is only one certain way by which that can be done, viz., by the use of pure stimulants, and it is now generally admitted that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only-reliable form in which pure whiskey is to-day offered to the public. This grand and pure compound is not a common whiskey, but a sure and absolute remedy. It has saved more lives threatened by pneumonia, checked more consumption and preserved more bealth than any other chemical discovery of modern times. Its popularity proves this. Care should be exercised to secure only the genuine, and under no circumstances to take a cheap substitute which is declared to be just as good. Take pneumonia in time, for even if it is checked, unless taken promptly, it may run into consumption.
